February 2018

February should be a great month for Washington School especially since we celebrate our namesake's birthday. We are also half way through the school year as we approach our 100th day of school. Your children and their teachers have been working hard each and every day learning new topics and applying previously learned skills. This month, your child will also be tested on his/her reading level. It is important for children to be reading each night.

Here are three reasons to read with your elementary schooler every night:

Time together.

Listening to fluent reading.

Talking about texts.

Tonight, grab two books, and ask your child to choose one. Start reading, and you'll be glad you did.

It will all help to develop relationships, critical thinking, and better reading comprehension!
